

JON & BULLARD

COUNTRY

OFFICIAL PRESS KIT

Raised on Oklahoma backroads and late-night jukebox songs, Jon Bullard writes country music that feels lived-in, honest, and real. His sound blends modern country energy with the storytelling grit of small towns, long drives, neon nights, and the moments that stay with you long after the music fades.

But behind the songs is a deeper story.

After helping both of his parents through terminal cancer in recent years, Jon walked away with a completely different perspective on life, time, and purpose. Watching the people who raised him fight those battles firsthand pushed him to stop waiting and give country music everything he had. What once started as a passion became something more personal — a reminder that life is short, tomorrow isn't promised, and the things that matter most deserve your whole heart.

That perspective lives inside his music.

Whether it's a barroom anthem, a windows-down summer song, or a lyric that hits a little too close to home, Jon writes from real experience. His songs capture love, loss, hope, heartbreak, and the kind of nights people wish they could live twice. There's an authenticity in his music that listeners connect with because it isn't manufactured — it's lived.

On stage, Jon brings that same honesty into a high-energy live show built around connection, emotion, and keeping the crowd fully in the moment. From intimate acoustic rooms to packed dance floors, he delivers a performance that feels personal while still bringing the energy country fans came for.

For fans, it's music that reminds them to hold onto the people and moments that matter. For venues and festivals, it's an artist who shows up with purpose, professionalism, and something real to say.
